RE: 2933 Belclaire Drive
Frisco, Texas

Dear Sirs:

We are at the completion of a very complicated and detailed swimming pool project located at 2933 Belclaire Drive in Frisco. In the course of any project there are always hiccups and this job was no exception.

Over the last 30 odd years of constructing pools in the entire Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex I have seen plenty of these jobs and there have been many times where these hiccups have caused major issues between the contractor and the building officials. There always seems to be a sense of non-cooperation between the contractor and the building official which just compound those issues.

The purpose of this letter is to express to you my feelings about the Builder Inspection Department of the City of Frisco and certain inspectors that we had the privilege to work with on this project. I have to say that I have never worked with a building department that was as knowledgeable, cooperative and available as your department on this project. Every time we had questions we got answers, even to the point of the inspectors meeting us on site to review items before they became issues. This effort on your department's behalf prevented many components of this project from being installed nit to code which could have cost us or our client both money and time. I just always got a "what can we do to help" attitude from everyone we worked with.

The "team" of officials we specifically worked with were Robert Thomas, ^{W H ITSON} Chris Lewis and John Riley. All three were extremely helpful during all phases of construction whenever we had questions or needed guidance. We had several non-inspection meetings that allowed us to construct certain aspects of the project with minimal issues.

I would especially like to mention John Riley. As we approached the preplaster inspection he went way past his normal duties to assist us in receiving a green tag. On this particular project the fence contractor was working under the general contractor's scope of work and not ours. John was instrumental in bringing all the code issues to the table which made all three of the contractors cooperate to accomplish what was needed to pass code. Not only did he spend the time with all of us on a Friday morning but was available to me to answer questions over the weekend via cell phone so I could assist the fence contractor in making proper adjustments to his work. John was even willing to stop in on the project on that Saturday had the fence contractor been ready for the inspection.

Again, I would like to thank you for having such a professional team who made me feel that in were all working together for the common goal of a safe and quality construction project.

From all of us at Pool Environments, thank you!

Phil McEwan
